CONTENTS

	Page
I.—Fielding's Political Purpose in Jonathan Wild. By John Edwin Wells	1
II.—Studies in the Epic Poem Godefroi de Bouillon. II. By Hugh A. Smith	56
III.—Patrons of Letters in Norfolk and Suffolk, c. 1450. II. By Samuel Moore	79
IV.—The Theme of Paradise Lost. By Elbert N. S. Thompson	106
V.—Notes on Manuscripts of the Prophécies de Merlin. By Lucy Allen Paton	121
VI.—Casimir Delavigne Intime. By Alicée Fortier	140
VII.—Development of the Progressiv Form in Germanic. By George O. Curme	159
VIII.—The Visión Delectable of Alfonso de la Torre and Maimonides's Guide of the Perplexed. By J. P. Wickersham Crawford	188
IX.—A Peculiar Phase of the Theory of Realism in Pre-Richardsonian Fiction. By Arthur Jerrold Tieje	213
X.—Histoire de l'Impression et de la Publication du Discours sur l'Inégalité, de J.-J. Rousseau. By Albert Schinz	253
XI.—The Early Fame of The Shepheards Calender. By C. R. Baskervill	291
XII.—The Mediæval Debate between Wine and Water. By James Holly Hanford	315
XIII.—Animals in Early English Ecclesiastical Literature, 650-1500. By Christabel F. Fiske	368
XIV.—Personal Relationships in Medieval France. By William A. Stowell	388
XV.—Publication before Printing. By Robert K. Root	417
XVI.—Mrs. Behn's Biography a Fiction. By Ernest Bernbaum	432
XVII.—The Extant Repertory of the Early Sicilian Poets. By Ernest F. Langley	454
XVIII.—Chaucer's Retractions. By John S. P. Tatlock	521
XIX.—The Vogue of Richard Jefferies. By Norman Foerster	530
XX.—Spenser and Two Old French Grail Romances. By Edgar A. Hall	539
XXI.—Deutschland ist Hamlet. By Carl F. Schreiber	555
XXII.—Inedited Letters of Fulvio Orsini to Antonio Agustín By J. P. Wickersham Crawford	577
XXIII.—The Authorship of A Warning for Fair Women. By Joseph Quincy Adams, Jr.	594

267597